

The Continuum of Openness

The Open Education Licensing project team is using the continuum of openness to stimulate thoughts and generate discussion around open educational practices and business modelling which will feed into our data collection and stakeholder interaction. Where does your project sit on the continuum?

The OEL Project is a joint research and development project between Swinburne University of Technology and the University of Tasmania. Supported by the Australian Government Office for Learning and Teaching.

